SUMMARY

I am an eager and committed university undergraduate with a solid grasp of programming languages such as Python, HTML, and C. My skills in web development, problem-solving, and algorithm design demonstrate my enthusiasm for continuous learning and a deep-seated interest in technology. While my professional background is rooted in tutoring, I have actively refined my technical abilities through independent study and practical projects.

I bring to the table a high level of efficiency and attention to detail, coupled with the capacity to quickly adapt to new environments and devise innovative solutions. Skilled in working within team-based coding projects, I also excel in clear and effective communication. Keen to apply my programming knowledge, I am looking forward to growing and facing new challenges in a vibrant and challenging environment.
